

Air Pollution

Particulate matter (PM) and its health impacts

Particulate matter is an indicator for air pollution

Air pollution is linked to maternal, adolescent and child health

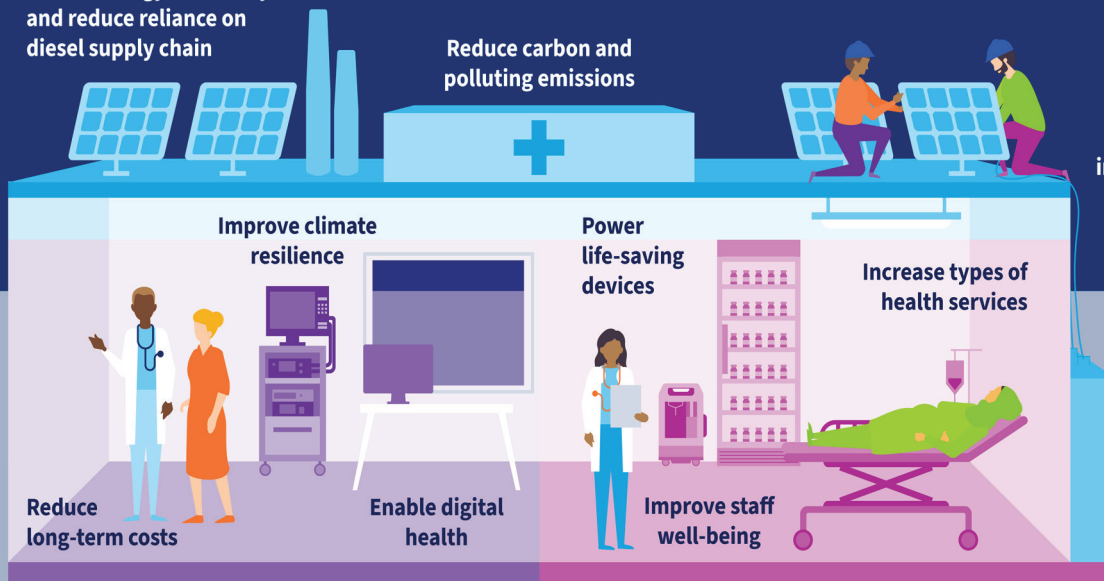

Decentralized, renewable energy solutions for health-care facilities

Ensure energy autonomy and reduce reliance on diesel supply chain

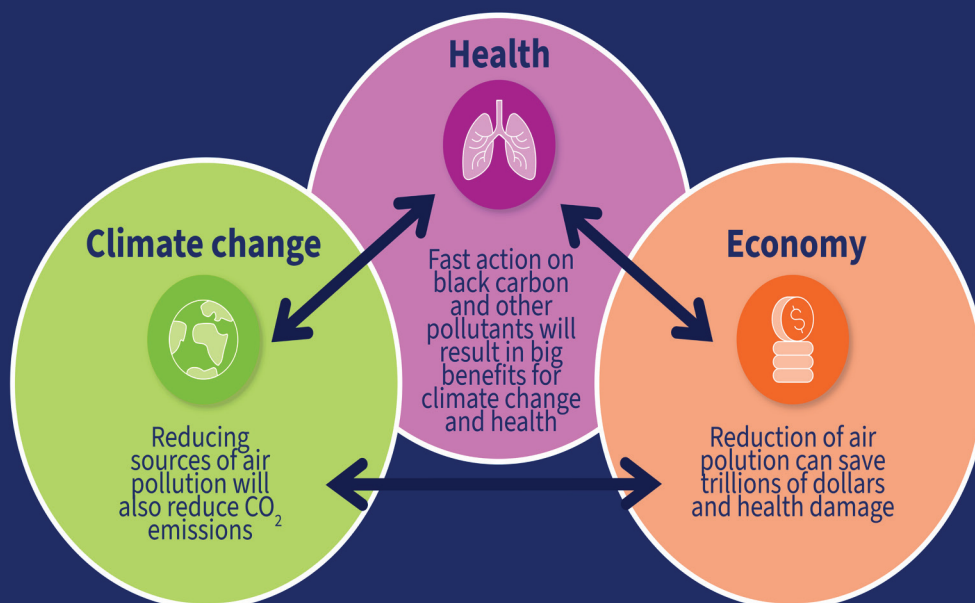

Reduce carbon and polluting emissions

Strengthen local job opportunities by involving technicians for installation, operation and maintenance

World Health Organization

Tackling air pollution is a triple win

Reducing sources of air pollution will cut costs, help our planet and protect global health

World Health Organization

Credit to all Infographics is to the World Health Organization (who.int/multi-media)